

In a free society it is imperative that all views are heard and aired. We as a country must be informed and we as a people have the right and the responsibility to decide what we believe for ourselves.